COURTHOUSE FULL OF LAWYERS.

Prominent Attorneys Offer to Take Ex-Governor Chase's Case at Kokomo.

KOKOMO, Ind., June 12.—Ex-Gov. Ira J. Chase and John W. Paris, the indicted officers of the Paris-Dwiggins bank at Greentown, came up from Indianapolis this afternoon. Paris, president of the collapsed concern, deposited a bond, whose indorsers were worth $200,000, and the bondsmen of the ex-Governor represented $200,000. Rev. Chase came demanding immediate trial, insisting that the State prepare for action at once. That can hardly be done as the court calendar for the current term is filled, trials already being set for every day of the term. All the bank cases must go over till October. Prominent attorneys are here from all parts of the State to volunteer their services in Governor Chase's behalf as a manifestation of love and respect. Should he accept all the courthouses would not hold them.

SUICIDE OF THOMAS COLLINS.

Drove His Wife from Him and Shot Himself with a Flobert Rifle.

SHILBYVILLE, Ind., June 12.—About 3 o'clock this morning Thomas Collins shot himself through the head and died within an hour. This was his third attempt to commit suicide. About a year ago his daughter died, and shortly afterwards he tried to kill himself with a gun, but his friends talked to him and he seemed to get all right. One morning last winter he was found in bed deathly sick, and it was found that he or some one had put poison into his coffee pot. Last night he told his wife he would be a dead man before morning. About 6 o'clock Mrs. Collins awakened and found him with a gun in his hand. She tried to take it away from him, but he pushed her back and, placing the muzzle to the side of his head just back of his right ear, sent a bullet through his brain. The gun was a flobert rifle.

Three Successful and One Unsuccessful Attempt to Leave the Prison South.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., June 12.—One of the most daring of the many recent attempts to escape from the Prison South was made this morning by Theodore Powekas, a Pole, who was sent from Martinsville to serve a term for larceny. Hiding under a wagon which was making its way out of the big double gates of the prison, he escaped detection by the guards until he had gone some distance from the prison. He then made a break for the Ohio with the guard in pursuit. Reaching the banks of the river he hesitated a minute and then plunged in. He swam but a short distance when the swift waters of the falls carried him rapidly down the stream to the end of the rocky rapids where he was rescued by the biddy where so many persons have lost their lives. Seeing that there was no chance to cross the river and that he would either be shot by the guards from the shore or carried into the whirlpool, he swam back to shore and was captured.

August Price, who was sent from New Albany to serve a term for larceny, escaped from the Prison South Saturday evening by going through the roof of a room at the end of the chapel, in which is stored the clothing from convicts upon their arrival at the prison. The men first donned citizens' clothes and then walked along the shore of the trap over the guards' dining-room. Twisting off the hinges, they reached the interior, passed down the stairs and walked out shortly afterwards. A pursuit was made, but the trio disappeared. They managed to reach Louisville, and are still at large. Smith, who is a Cincinnati crook, is one of the successful escapees in prison, and he was continually giving the officials trouble. He is the one who successfully fled from the break.

Shot Down in Cold Blood.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., June 12.—Moxie Clune, one of the most notorious criminals in the State, was probably fatally shot, last night, in the hands of the guards of Jacob Butterfoss. The two had been playing cards together when Clune struck Butterfoss with a pin. Butterfoss did not say anything, but in a few minutes went to his house, a short distance away, and procured his shotgun, returning, he fired at Clune, and on his approaching within a short distance, raised the gun and emptied the contents in the region of the groin. Clune fell and was carried to his home. Butterfoss has not been captured. Clune has served terms in several of the prisons throughout the country.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., June 12.—Yesterday a fatal accident happened to John Campbell, the thirteen-year-old son of Doc Campbell, living about five miles west of Shelbyville. One cartridge had exploded, blowing the boy's head with such force that the point was imbedded in his forehead to such a depth that it took a strong pull to extract it. The boy is in a dangerous condition.

Failure of the Harvey World's Fair Hotel and a Home Improvement Concern.

Receiver Appointed for Both Companies After Charges of Irregularities Had Been Made by the Union Signal.

CHICAGO, June 12.—A receiver was appointed this morning for the Harvey World's Fair Hotel and the Harvey Home Improvement Company. Walter Thomas Mills is the principal creditor. The assets of the home improvement company are scheduled at $141,500 and the liabilities at $89,000, and the assets of the hotel company at $85,000, with $60,000 liabilities. The failure is the result of an article which appeared in the Union Signal, the official organ of the W. C. T. U., charging Mills with irregularities in conducting the hotel scheme, which was built by subscriptions to profit-sharing certificates.

The improvement company was closely allied to the hotel scheme, its purpose being to furnish accommodations, home supplies, moral and educational entertainments, lectures, literature, recreation and amusement, and to conduct and operate hotels, restaurants, etc., for the elevation of the home life of persons of small means. The capital stock of the company was to be $100,000, and was fully paid.

Though the name "Harvey" is used in connection with both enterprises, the hotel is situated at a considerable distance from Harvey, and the people of that town disclaimed any connection with it. The hotel was a story and a half building, containing two hundred or more guests of the hotel company to-day in the tabernacle tent adjoining the hotel. Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman explained how they came to invest in Mr. Mills' enterprise, and asked the forgiveness of those whom they injured. Mrs. Hoffman, president of the W. C. T. U., of Michigan, and Mrs. Francis Letter, national superintendent from Ohio, told the story of the failure. Mrs. Hoffman said that she was only because prominent members of that organization were interested financially in it that it came to be patronized by W. C. T. U. members from all over the country.

Later in the day Mills filed a suit for $50,000 for damages against the Woman's Temperance Association. Mills charges the cause of the failure to an article printed in the Union Signal, the official organ of the W. C. T. U., and his suit for damages is based on libel. The appointment of a receiver for the hotel and the home improvement company was made by the court. The receiver is to liquidate the assets of the companies and to pay the creditors. The receiver is to be paid out of the assets of the companies. The receiver is to be paid out of the assets of the companies.

BATTLE WITH TWO BANDITS

Sixth Encounter with Sontag and Evans, Notorious California Desperadoes.

Former Seriously Wounded and Captured—The Latter Hiding in the Hills with the Officers in Close Pursuit.

VISALIA, Cal., June 12.—After a search extending over two months and after six encounters with different legal possees, the notorious train robbers, John Sontag and Chris Evans, last night met four deputy United States marshals, and, as a result of the encounter which followed, Sontag was wounded, possibly fatally, and is now in custody, having been brought here this afternoon. His companion escaped after firing forty shots at his pursuers. Where he made his stand last night, he left his hat and two empty guns and the ground was found covered with blood this morning, indicating that he, too, is wounded. Being without guns or ammunition it is thought he will be captured.

The four officers who made the attack upon the bandits were United States Marshal Card, Edward Rapella, Fred Jackson and Thomas Burns. The latter was with Black at Camp Badger when the latter was shot by the robbers last month. These officers have been in the mountains for a week looking for the robbers, and Sunday afternoon encamped at a vacant house eighteen miles northeast from this city. About twenty minutes before sunset Rapella went to the rear door of the house and saw two men coming down the hill toward the place. On closer examination it was discovered that the men were Evans and Sontag. The former was in the lead and carried a rifle and shotgun, and Sontag was armed with simply a rifle. Rapella and Jackson went up the hill and the two robbers who were asleep. They jumped up quickly and grabbed their guns, and prepared to make a fight. The officers went out of the front door of the house, and as they went around back of the corner Evans saw Rapella, and, throwing his Winchester to his shoulder, took deliberate aim and fired. Sontag then stepped around behind Rapella and fired at the bandits. Sontag threw up both hands and fell backward. Then the firing became general and Evans returned the shots with a vengeance. Evans got behind an old rubbish pile, out of sight, but kept up a terrible fusillade. Jackson went around the far end of the house to see if he could get a better place from which to shoot. As he went around he was shot in the leg, between the knee and ankle. He limped back to where his comrades were and lay down on the ground. About forty shots were exchanged between the officers and the bandits before the sun went down and darkness ended the battle. Evans was seen to crawl on his stomach from behind the rubbish pile and Rapella again opened fire and Evans then arose and ran toward the hills, followed by Rapella, who continued firing. Evans did not return the fire and in a few minutes was out of sight.

Rapella returned to the house and, procuring a wagon, brought Jackson to the city soon after midnight. Marshals Card and Burns remained at the scene of the fight. Sontag lay behind a small stack of hay all night, where he was found by Card and Burns. Sontag says he spit blood all night. There is a glancing blow along his forehead and on each side of his nose. It is claimed that he inflicted these three wounds himself, though this is denied by Evans, who says that he started toward Visalia, and his home will be watched day and night. Sontag talks freely. He says the jig is up, and that he does not care for the future. It is possible that Sontag may recover from his wounds, though the attending physicians will express no decided opinion. Officers are now searching the hills in the hope of finding Evans and completing at once the long chase.

The train robbery, which was the beginning of this criminal chapter, occurred at a station near Colton, Cal., Aug. 3, 1892. An express car was blown up with dynamite, and express messenger George D. Weaver was seriously injured. Officers soon arrested George Sontag, at the house of Chris Evans, in this city. He was afterwards tried and sent to the penitentiary for life. When an attempt was made to arrest Evans, he and John Sontag opened fire on the officers, wounding George W. W. in a second encounter near Weaver, an officer was killed in front of Evans' house, on Sept. 14 Andrew McGinniss and Victor Wilcox were killed in the mountains. Sontag and Evans, and two other officers were wounded. On May 30, J. Black, another officer, was wounded by the bandits in the mountains. No previous criminal record in the history of California has occasioned greater public interest. Until the train robbery occurred, Evans had borne a good reputation, and great esteem was felt when the crime was traced to his door. He is an educated man, is a native of Canada, and is said to have early schooling was to him from the priesthood. He has a wife and children living in this city. The two Sontag brothers lived in Minnesota, coming to this State a few years ago.
